

CHC33015

Certificate III in Individual Support (Ageing, Home and Community)

About this course?

By successfully completing a CHC33015 Certificate III in Individual Support (Ageing, Home and Community), you will have developed the skills and knowledge to provide person-centred support to individuals within a community and/or residential setting.

This nationally recognised VET qualification includes 14 units of competency. You must successfully complete all of the assessments for all of the units, along with your 120 hours of work placement, in order to gain the qualification.

Course Delivery

With Jigsaw's self-paced learning, you will be allocated a trainer who will be in regular contact and assist you through your studies. Trainers also hold frequent online interactive sessions with other students or individually for teachings, role plays and more.

You receive full access to your assessments online as well as additional readings, videos and more.

Your trainer is also available to answer any questions via email or telephone during office hours, including during the online classroom sessions.

In addition to the online learning, online workshops and role plays, learners will be required to work with clients during a 120 hour work placement which learners are required to source themselves.

Who should do this course?

- Anyone looking for a new career path in providing individual support to people who are ageing.
- Existing workers in the community service sector who want to develop or enhance their knowledge & skills within Individual Support Services.

Entry Requirements

Students applying for this qualification will need to show academic suitability. This can be done by providing a copy of a year 10 certificate, higher or equivalent. If you don't have any of the above, you will be required to complete approved Australian Core Skills Framework (ACSF) reading and numeracy tests at Exit Level 3 or above. If required, we will organise these tests for you at no additional charge.
